

CHURCH IS SPLIT INTO FACTIONS

Syrians Form New One To Be Greek Orthodox

WANT ACCOUNTING

Claim Father Salmone Has Rendered No Report On Fund

HE MAKES HOT RETORT

Tells Bishop Good Parishioners Are Satisfied

Charging that the Rev. Father Phillip Salmone has been collecting and disbursing the funds of Our Lady of the Lourdes Roman Catholic church without rendering statements, thirteen members of the North side Syrian colony, after petitioning the Rt. Rev. Bishop James Schwebach to compel the priest to account for the moneys, have withdrawn from the parish of Father Salmone and formed a new church to be known as the Greek Orthodox.

A site for the new church has been purchased on Caledonia street, near St. Cloud, and the Rev. Nicole Tenney, Kearney, Neb., has been engaged to take charge of the new parish. Work on the construction of the church will be started soon.

In a reply to the charges, Rev. Father Salmone in a lengthy communication to Bishop Schwebach charges that William Addes, one of the signers of the complaint against the priest, is not a Catholic, and recently "spat upon the picture of the Blessed Virgin Mary in the home of Abraham Addes." He also charges that some of the signatures to the complaint are not genuine and were attached to that document without the knowledge of the men they represented.

He also maintains that the present church treasurer, to whom he is charged with failing to report the collections and disbursements, was elected to office only after a hard fight between the parishioners and was put in office by seven or eight votes of his clique because the majority of the members in good standing became disgusted and left the hall.

Treasurer Not Member.

Namer Haddad is the treasurer, and in his reply to the bishop, Father Salmone charges "that as this man has not made his Easter duty since I have been in La Crosse, he is therefore not a member of the church."

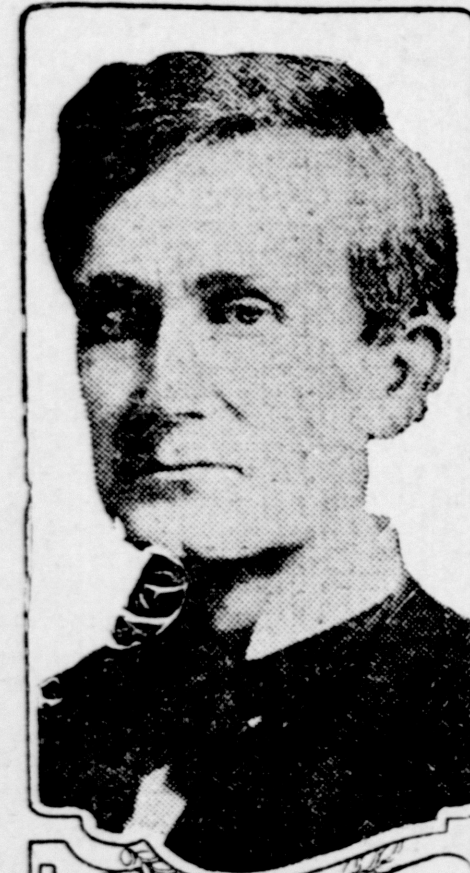

In their complaint to Bishop Schwebach the formers of the church maintain that "there is general dissatisfaction with the manner in which the affairs of the parish are being conducted by the Rev. Salmone, the present pastor." They also maintain that it is their belief "that he has collected a large amount of money, but no account has ever been rendered of the same and your committee and the members of the parish have no knowledge as to the financial condition of affairs."

They ask the bishop that the Rev. Father Salmone be compelled to "say mass and have church services at regular stated intervals" and that his salary "be fixed."

Secrecy Maintained.

The greatest secrecy has been maintained among the complainants, all of them being sworn to say nothing. The news of the trouble came to light Wednesday when the purchase of the property on Caledonia street was made public. One of the Greeks, maintaining that there was no object in keeping the affair quiet, talked of the dissension. When informed that it had "leaked out," Father Salmone expressed himself as greatly grieved over the affair, but maintained that it was no more than fair to himself to have all the details published. He furnished The Tribune with a complete itemized account of all collections and disbursements made by him since his becoming the head of

THREE HUNDRED AT BIG PICNIC

Weather Fails to Drive Crowds Away from Merchants' and Grocers' Outing

DAKOTA PARK, Minn., Aug. 10. (Special.)—In spite of the adverse weather conditions this morning a crowd of about 300 arrived on the steamer La Crosse to enjoy the twelfth annual excursion given by the Merchants and Grocers' associations.

As there were few on hand at 8 o'clock, when the first boat was scheduled to start, it was soon decided to wait and make two trips in one. About 10 o'clock the crowd began to arrive and when the boat left the harbor at the foot of Main street, there were about 300 people on board. This trip served for the first two and the trip back to La Crosse for the rest of the crowd was made at noon. The first boat taking the picnickers home will start from Dakota at about 5:30, while the second will leave the grounds about 7:30.

Kreutz's Land is furnishing the music for the day and they played in the city prior to the time for leaving the dock.

Athletic Program

Ball games, guessing contests, foot races and tugs of war, events for everyone, have been arranged. An interesting program which will be of interest to all has been scheduled so every person will have a chance to get into a contest and so be in line for the prizes, all of which are useful and will appeal to the contestants.

The ball game between the clerks of the north and south sides was scheduled for 10:30 a. m. but on account of the late start it could not be played at that time as the boat did not reach its destination until almost noon. However, Secretary Taggart announced that all events on the program will be run at the time during the day.

DAKOTA PARK, 2:30 p. m.

The baseball game will be called as soon as the captains of the teams can decide upon an umpire. The north side aggregation has been practicing in Copeland park for weeks and when they clash with the south side business men they promise to show "some form."

Immediately after the ball game the potato, sack and other races will start and the prizes awarded.

The boy was on his way to the home of a brother in Detroit, Mich. In Chicago he asked "the way to Michigan" and a policeman directed him to Michigan avenue. He walked to its end and kept on going, reaching here today.

He is at present in the office of Attorney F. H. Hartwell and funds are being raised among businessmen to ship him to his brother's home in Michigan.

GENERAL STRIKE MAY TIE UP ALL U. S. RAILROADS

Greatest Crisis in Industrial Affairs Approaches Under Leadership of Federation of Labor

MAGNATES FIGHT THE PLAN

'System Federations' Propose to Combine All Branches in One Union

WOULD PARALYZE TRAFFIC

Plan to Have All Contracts Expire on Same Date; the Movement Is Growing

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—A critical situation in the dealing of American railroad managers and their millions of employees is said rapidly to be drawing to a head and within the next six months, according to labor union leaders of national repute, America will have witnessed the greatest industrial strike of modern times or a complete remodeling of conditions under which railroad men of all branches labor.

The new combination of the industrial forces, gathered under the leadership of the railroad employees department of the American Federation of Labor and known as the "system federations," organized in the last six months, has precipitated what railroad men and employees themselves admit is a crisis. Each "system federation" will represent a different railway system.

Contracts on Different Dates

For years, the agreements between the railroads and the various branches of their employees have been expiring on different dates of different years. In this way the railroads always were protected from a general strike and when one department of their employees struck, work could be shifted to another branch, which was under contract not to strike until the stated time of the agreement had expired. The strike of one branch usually was settled before that time arrived, so a general strike always was out of the question.

Within the last six months, however, the "system federations" have adopted a new policy. Under the American Federation of Labor, it is proposed to combine every branch of the railroad trade into one union. Already the shop workers, boiler-makers, telegraphers, switchmen, blacksmiths, machinists and sheet metal workers, numbering 700,000 have joined the "system federation," and the firemen, engineers and others are said to be seriously contemplating such a move.

To Combine All Employees

The main object of this "system federation" is to combine all employees so that every contract will expire the same day. In this way, if demands are not met, a strike involving every man in every railway system in America may be called. It was by such a move as this that the world famous "general strikes" were called abroad, absolutely paralyzing traffic and giving the workers the things they demanded.

Realizing the gravity of such a situation, the railroad magnates have announced that they will not treat with the system federations. They declare they are willing to continue to treat with committees representing each separate trade, as they now do but they will not accede to a demand that all contracts expire on the same day, so that a general strike may be called on any system which refuses to meet the men's demands.

Demands Simultaneous

The situation, it is conceded, has not yet reached an acute stage. The system federation is in its infancy and has not yet the support of some of the largest railway unions, such as the engineers, firemen and conductors, although nearly a million men are already enrolled. That these other unions, however, will join in the movement is the firm belief of the railway men, who predict that inside of the next six months all the railway unions will have merged under the American Federation of Labor and will be in a position to make simultaneous demands.

The Rock Island railroad employees already have a system federation, a committee of which has been in Chicago for two weeks, meeting secretly with the officials of the road, who thus far have refused to treat with the committee officially.

$50,000,000 Raise Demanded

The system federation of the Southern Pacific is understood to have made demands and voted to strike if the demands are refused. The Union Pacific system federation is understood to be taking a secret strike vote. The Illinois Central system federation is said to be planning a secret move.

ALL LONDON IS FORCED TO WALK

Big Transportation Strike Rapidly Spreading; Traffic Tied Up; Business at Standstill

FOOD FAMINE IS INEVITABLE

Market Supplies Exhausted; Provisions Rot in the Ships; Police Unable to Quell Riots

BLOODSHED IS FEARED

LONDON, Aug. 10.—London will resemble an armed camp by morning and an entire division of the British army, armed with ball cartridges will stamp out all disorder resulting from the strike of transportation employees and dock laborers. The advent of the soldiers, who are now on their way here from the encampment at Aldershot, will, it is feared, result in wide-spread rioting and perhaps much bloodshed.

The orders for the troops to move followed a day of rioting which showed that the London constabulary was unable to keep order. Serious fighting had been in progress along the waterfront and at the railway stations all day and at a cabinet conference it was decided the rioting must be stopped by force.

The strike in Liverpool is also reported very much more serious tonight and more infantry has been rushed there. The mayor tonight sent an urgent telegram to the home secretary asking for cavalry, saying that the city is not safe.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—That all

London, with its six million population, will have to walk unless the great transportation strike is settled within forty-eight hours, is predicted today and a food famine is considered inevitable. The strike spread today to carters, freight handlers and teamsters at all railway stations, and to others employed in the handling and transportation of freight, about 25,000 men going out. A conservative estimate places the number of strikers and those indirectly thrown out of work at 120,000, but there are constant accessions. Affiliated unions are either walking out in sympathetic support or consider the moment opportune to present grievances of their own.

The war office has ordered troops at Aldershot to be in readiness to be rushed to London and it is reported some have already secretly entrained.

Traffic Demoralized

Motor bus traffic was badly demoralized today. The supply of petrol is running low and there was only half service during the day. By tomorrow, all motor bus service, upon which London is so dependent, will be completely at a standstill.

Thousands of tons of food supplies are rotting in ships on the Thames, the vessels being unable to dock. Prices of meats and other provisions are soaring. In many instances they have gone up 100 percent. The Thames is fairly blocked with vessels.

Numerous large markets failed to open today, as their supplies were exhausted. Dealers appealed to cab drivers to make deliveries where need of food was urgent, but were refused.

Turbulent Scenes

Many turbulent scenes marked the strike today. Mail wagons, escorted by heavy detachments of police, were the center of disorder. Clashes between strikers and the police began with daybreak and continued all day. About noon mounted police surrounded Paddington station, which had been blocked by throngs of strikers. The temper of the workmen became uglier as the day progressed. The police used their batons freely, but seemed unable to cope with the situation.

Home Secretary Winston Churchill has under consideration urgent appeals made today to call out the troops to assist the police.

General apprehensiveness is reflected in the stock market. All railroad shares went down today.

Hearse Carries Supplies

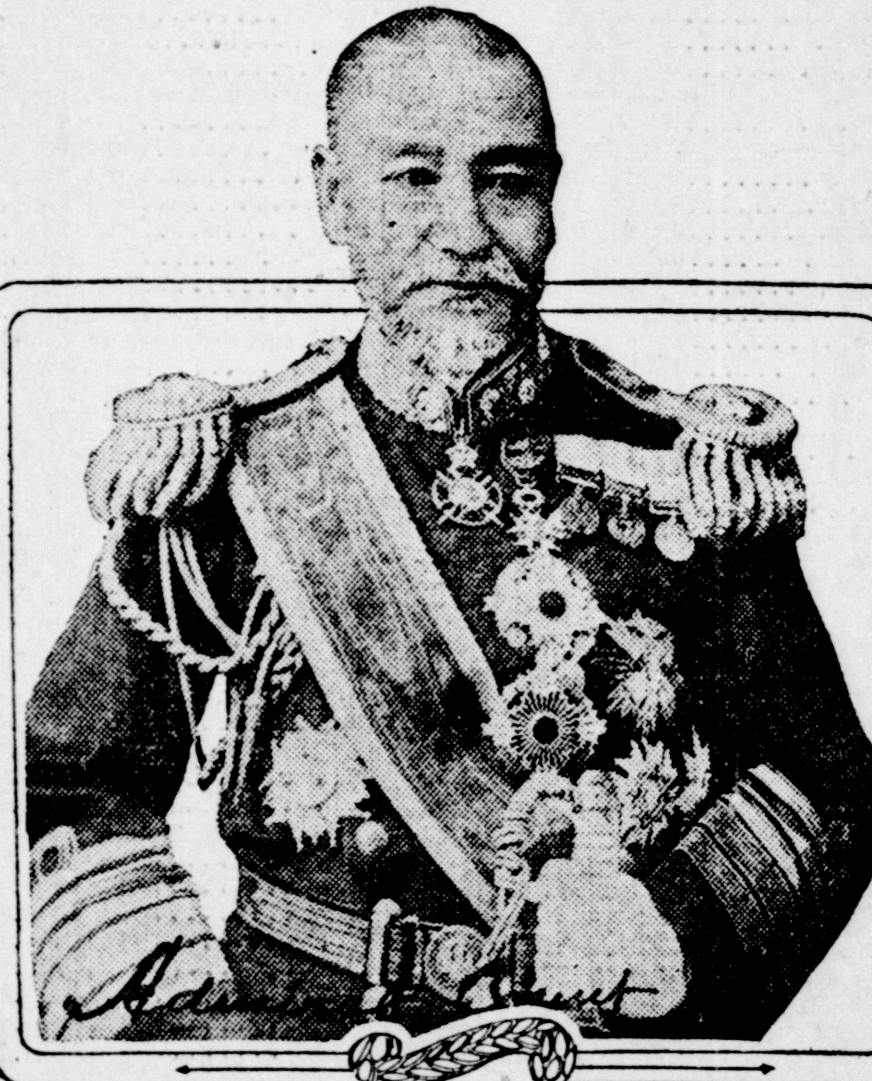

A hearse and two closed carriages, packed with meat, drove up in funeral fashion to one of the leading hotels this afternoon and unloaded its supplies. The black plumes and other mourning regalia gave the hearse and carriages the right of way. The strikers quietly allowed the procession to pass.

King George, returning from Sandringham, was delayed some time in Queen Victoria street today while on his way to the palace. His motor car was held up by a long string of stranded wagons.

PERKINS RAVES AT SHERMAN LAW

Says Campaign of Anti-Trust Prosecution Is Dangerous to All Business Interests

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Waving his arms about his head in earnest gesticulation George W. Perkins, former henchman of J. P. Morgan, today denounced the Sherman anti-trust law before the Stanley steel committee and predicted business disaster as a result of its enforcement.

Perkins declared that the present campaign of anti-trust prosecution was dangerous to all business interests. He characterized the dissolution order of the supreme court in the Standard Oil case as a "red flag, a danger signal to every business man," and asserted that under the Sherman law the "commercial supremacy of the nation could not be maintained." The benefits of the big corporations in business should be preserved, he declared.

The financier characterized as an "infamous lie" the charge that "certain bankers" started the panic of 1907 for a purpose and that it got beyond their control. And he grew wildly excited in denying that the "Morgan interests" dominate the financial world.

Bartlett asked if Perkins agreed with Judge Gary as to the necessity for government regulation of corporations, even as to prices.

Some Action Necessary

"I agree with Judge Gary that we should have some construction action," Perkins asserted. "But I do not agree with him as to government regulation of prices. But, as between even that extreme and going on as we are now, I prefer that limit."

"You think that you cannot do business under the Sherman law?" asked Bartlett.

"We certainly cannot," declared Perkins. "I do not believe that this country can handle its labor question, its relations with other countries, and maintain commercial supremacy under a technical enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law."

"You have been successful?" asked Bartlett.

"Yes."

"Never violated the law, so far as you know?"

"Never."

"Well, the law has been in force since 1890. Why this sudden fear about it?"

Remedy Suggested

Perkins pointed out that only since the Standard Oil and Tobacco decisions had the full force of the law become apparent.

"Can you suggest any action that would remedy present conditions?" asked Gardiner (Rep., Mass.).

"Yes," answered Perkins. "One thing you can do that would stop speculation in New York and prevent conditions which cause panics would be to prevent the banks of Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis from sending their money to New York in the summer, putting it out in call loans and then disruptions by pulling it out on short notice and taking it back in the fall to finance the crops. This gives us a high money market when we need low money for commercial purposes."

AMERICAN HEROES IN LONDON FIRE

Many Hysterical Women Rescued From Flames in Carlton Hotel; One Life Lost

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Heroes of yesterday's fire which put the fashionable Hotel Carlton out of business were the Earl of Poulett and R. M. Hunter, a Philadelphian. While the employees were rushing here and there in a semi-hysterical condition, the earl and Hunter explored the upper floors, rescuing many women who had lost their way in the smoke filled corridors and piloting them to the stairways. That the death list was not large was due in great measure to their efforts.

Discussing the fire today, Hunter said: "I was dressing for dinner when the alarm bells sounded. As I rushed into the corridor to aid the men attach the hose to the standpipes, I encountered the Earl of Poulett. He told me there were several women on the floor above who had seemingly lost their heads."

Earl Helps American

"We wrapped wet towels about our heads and caught up a supply of them. When we found the women wandering about, we put the damp cloths over their mouths so that they could breathe and then aided them to the fire escapes. The Earl of Poulett was a real hero and gave me every assistance."

"I only aided an American named Hunter in getting these women out," said the earl. "Hunter did all the work."

Search of the ruins today revealed that but one life was lost in last night's fire, that of James Lee Finney, a distinguished actor, whose remains were positively identified this morning. Finney evidently was in his bathroom when the fire reached him.

Escape Without Baggage

Many prominent Americans today told how they escaped in bare feet and attired only in bathrobes or lounging gowns. Billie Burke, the actress, fled in her dressing gown. Both she and James R. Keene, the New York horseman, who has been ill at the hotel, lost all of their baggage. Keene was the last guest to leave, insisting upon taking his time. John Wanamaker, Jr., who had a suite on the fourth floor, rushed through the smoke to the floor above and rescued a woman, lowering her on a rope to R. M. Hunter and John P. McFadden, Jr., Americans, who carried her downstairs.

Isadore Morse, of New York, rescued three women overcome by the smoke in the corridor on the fourth floor. Former Governor Frank Brown of Maryland and his son, who were on the second floor, were the only guests who succeeded in dragging out their baggage. John Puroy Mitchell, president of the board of aldermen of New York, with his wife, were among the last to get out.

PETITIONS ARE SENT

Text of Appeals to Federal and State Governments

Following are copies of the petitions filed with the bureau of fisheries, Washington, D. C., and the commissioners of fisheries, Madison, Wis., seeking the restoration to the Mississippi of all minnows and fish rescued in land-locked waters along that river. While some "red tape" may be expected at Washington, it is the belief of citizens who have interested themselves in the matter here that both petitions will be granted:

Dr. Gatterdam's Petition

"To the Commission of Fisheries, Madison, Wis.

"Gentlemen:

"Permit me, as a citizen of Wisconsin, to petition your honorable body to give instructions that, for a period of years at least, all minnows and small fish rescued from land-locked waters adjacent to the Mississippi river under the authority of the fisheries commission be restored to that river."

"It has for years been my privilege to fish for bass in the Mississippi river, from Wabasha to Genoa. Within the last three years the bass fishing has rapidly deteriorated, and at the present writing bass are so scarce as to render fishing not worth while."

"Were the federal and state fisheries commissions to co-operate by discontinuing distribution of the Mississippi river catch in inland waters, and by restoring them to the river for a time, it is believed the splendid sport that has been enjoyed here for years might be revived."

"While I am making this application personally in order to avoid the labor incident upon the circulation of a petition, I believe I do not overstate the case when I say that it voices the sentiments of all the residents of Wisconsin who live on or near the Mississippi river."

"Respectfully,

"E. A. GATTERDAM."

OUTCASTS LOSE IN TEN INN-ING CONTEST PITTSBURG FIRST IN NATIONAL DETROIT DEFEATS CARDS DEFEAT DODGERS

PIRATES TAKE A FAST GAME

Ten Inning Pitchers' Battle Goes to the Winona Club; Price and Wagner Battle

WAGNER WEAKENS IN EIGHTH

Pirate Slabman Gives Two Walks and Makes Error; Two Bingles Decide the Game

Yesterday's battle went to the Pirates. The Killianites turned the tables on the Bondsies winning the game in the tenth inning by a score of two to one. Price did the slab work for the Outcasts and proved effective, but misplays at critical moments allowed the Pirates to win. Wagner, the slab artist of the Winona club, kept the hits well scattered and pitched first class ball with the exception of the eighth when he weakened, allowing two men to go to first on walks. Kagner's error with the bases full on an easy ground ball gave the Bondsies their only tally.

Price opened the game by giving Graves a walk. Bewer then bunted to Price who threw to second to catch Graves on a forced run. However, Empire Schuler was in the way and in trying to throw without hitting him, Price sent the ball wild, allowing Graves to go third while Bewer went second. Davey then landed for a single and Graves crossed the plate for the first run of the game. Bewer also attempted to score but was cut off at the plate by Klein who threw home. Collins and Curtis, the next two batters, were retired without hitting the ball.

Both twirlers had the batters at their mercy from then on until the eighth when Wagner weakened. Wais, the first man up in the eighth hit to Wagner and was retired at first. Bond and Snyder walked and Price single filled the sacks. Klein who had made a double and single struck out and Malloy hit an easy grounder to Wagner, who lost his head and couldn't pick up the sphere. Bond scored from third and Snyder tried to reach the plate but was caught by a few inches ending the inning.

Neither club scored in the ninth. Bewer opened the tenth with a single and Davey sacrificed. Collins landed for a single sending Bewer home. Curtis then hit to Snyder and Collins was retired at second on a forced run. Leifheit hit to Price.

In the last of the tenth, Wais hit to short. Bond fled out to right garden and Snyder hit to second, ending the game.

Although Snyder's play, in attempting to score from second on Wagner's error in the eighth inning was criticized as poor headwork, by a number of fans, the general opinion was that Snyder showed that he was right in attempting to score. This was shown by the small margin by which he was caught. Snyder took a big chance to win and lost out, but never the less he was undoubtedly playing the game in going home. The score in detail:

KONEY MAKES A GREAT PLAY

Sport Writer Tells of Sensational Work by Former La Crosse Baseball Player

There are great plays and great players—I have seen Frank Schulte leap, grab a line drive with one hand against a screen, and after the ball had driven his hand through the screen jerk it out and throw home. I have seen Miller Huggins slide on his ear and stab, one handed, lim drives going through. There are all sorts of great plays, but when one is made that combines nerve, quickness, courage, brains and desperate execution, it is really great to my way of thinking.

It was that kind of a play, made by Koney, on the Boston grounds, that I believe was the greatest I ever saw. He took chances on his life, and on the game, to win it, and made the only play that could have saved us. I don't recall all the circumstances connected with the play. I remember that the score was tied late in the game and that Mattern had been giving us a lot of trouble while they were pecking away at our pitcher and threatening to win almost every inning. Both sides had done their scoring early and we were sticking to that one run lead desperately, as we figured on the way they were hitting and we weren't, that if they ever tied us the chances were they would bat us out.

I do not remember whether it was in the seventh or eighth inning, although that makes little difference, when they got men on first and third bases with one out. I can't even recall who was at bat, but I know we didn't figure him a hard hitter.

Did you ever notice how often those fellows you don't figure on to hit hard break up games? Well, this one came mighty near it. The ball broke over the out corner fast and perfect. This dub batter took a swing and I thought we had him struck out. We hadn't. He hit that ball almost over the inside corner of first base as if he had shot it out of a cannon. It was going so fast that it didn't seem possible for Koney to reach it. The big fellow, however, was moving with the ball and by a hard effort he reached it near the foul line and about 15 feet back of first base, and reached it on the fly with his mitt stuck down against the ground while he was diving after the ball. The ball stuck there, the runner on first base saw it stick, and came diving back to first to escape being doubled. In his effort to catch the ball Koney had turned entirely over. He got half way up and tried to dive clear to first base before the runner got back. That was impossible. He dived and fell short, and by that time the runner on third had retouched the bag and was coming home at top speed. With Koney stretched on the ground it looked all over, but the shouting, but the big fellow hadn't lost his head. He rolled over, sat up, and while sitting on the ground fired the ball home like a shot, beating the runner 10 feet, and the double play ended the inning and saved us. And the crowd, instead of appreciating what a marvelous play the big fellow had pulled, yelled "tough luck."

When a man can't lie to his wife it's a sign he hasn't got one.

Which was done. Mr. Lucas, out of the loving-kindness of an exceptional disposition, and a private treasury that would make John D. look like a mendicant, established what was termed the Union Association. Oh, to be sure, there were associates, but Lucas was the parent of the enterprise. He gathered together a choice collection of players, started clubs in a dozen or so cities, and let the boys write their own tickets. You can figure for yourself how long a life was coming to an organization of this sort. But the players referred to him openly as the Napoleon of Baseball, and he

CHICAGO CROOK IS BUSY IN EUROPE

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Unable to identify a thief arrested for stealing $14,000, the authorities of Stockholm, Sweden, sent his picture to police departments all over the world. Captain Evans, head of the Bertillon bureau of the Chicago police department, today identified the picture as that of William Burke, alias James William Taylor, notorious Chicago crook, who has robbed banks all over the United States and Europe. The identification was at once cabled to Sweden.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—A resolution taking from the house committee on expenditures in the interior department the right to investigate the Controller Bay, Alaska, water front entries, and providing for an investigation of that question by a special committee of five members of the house, was introduced this afternoon by Representative Humphrey (Rep., Wash.) ONE HUNDRED NOTABLE FIGURES IN BASEBALL

No. 73—Henry V. Lucas
The Sugar Bowl

Every now and then there comes a tide in the affairs of baseball which, taken at its flood, leads to temporary fortune. Most competition is this way. Always it doesn't last. Before Keith & Proctor got together—when they were fighting for the star acts—vaudeville players reaped the reward. When the consolidation came, the cuts came in the salaries. Tom Powers, who makes pictures, got rich while two rival newspaper publishers fought for his services. After a while, they stopped fighting. And so in baseball. Young Henry V. Lucas, a St. Louis millionaire, started to boost salaries nearly thirty years ago—and stood the gaff for a year. Ask any baseball boy with a memory what man was bigger than Washington, and he'll tell you St. Henry Meaning Lucas.

The players of the day complained of ill treatment, poor wage and lack of appreciation. "Poor fellows," said good Master Lucas. "My heart goes out to you. How would you like double salaries?" Fine! "And no onerous rules and regulations?" Great—only we don't make you on that "onerous" thing; what does it mean? "And your own playing schedule, so that if you're a hankering to play in one city, no flint-hearted manager shall toll you off to another." Immense. "Very good, my nobles, let's form a league of our own."

Which was done. Mr. Lucas, out of the loving-kindness of an exceptional disposition, and a private treasury that would make John D. look like a mendicant, established what was termed the Union Association. Oh, to be sure, there were associates, but Lucas was the parent of the enterprise. He gathered together a choice collection of players, started clubs in a dozen or so cities, and let the boys write their own tickets. You can figure for yourself how long a life was coming to an organization of this sort. But the players referred to him openly as the Napoleon of Baseball, and he was happy. When he wasn't around, in hearing, they called him the Sugar Bowl.

Anyway, Lucas was game. He got things moving in many localities. He had in his roster of players such fellows as Fred Dunlap, Joe Quinn, Tim Murnane, Tom Pratt, Mike Scanlon, Dave Rowe, Dan O'Leary, George Schaefer, and THAT sort. Class, eh? And among the clubs which stuck around till the wind up cities such as St. Louis, Cincinnati, Baltimore, Boston and Pittsburg were represented. There was big splashing in the baseball pool for a time, but you know how it is when you throw a stone into the pond—it's bound to sink, no matter how many ripples it makes, and the ripples die away, too, in short order. So it was with the Union Association. A year was enough.

Lucas couldn't make the venture stand up. He lost a huge wad of money, but he cared nothing about that. He lost the battle on the face of things, but he accomplished something, for he taught owners the lesson of greater consideration for the players who made profits possible. And so his fight wasn't altogether in vain. And while it lasted it was great sport—for the players. Even to this day, you'll find some old timers who'll tell you a King of England was named after Lucas of St. Louis, being called, indeed, Henry V.

Tomorrow—Ban John, the Perpetual President.

that his men are ordered to strictly refrain from selling minnows that have access to the river we do not question. But he must concede that his policy of paying for minnows by the thousand, which he defends as economical, opens the door for violation of the laws, especially as the men who are paid in this way are not always under the eye of his lieutenants.

Two men employed by Superintendent Nevin's field officers, and paid on the $5 per thousand basis, have made the positive statement that after going with the crews two or three days the regular employees of the commission have turned them loose and let them work without supervision.

Several men interviewed by The Tribune have declared that these crews have been seining in the open river, and that they have left coarse fish to die on the banks.

Mr. Nevin is quoted as saying "the state commission would be the first to institute a prosecution were any violation of the statute known." If Mr. Nevin cares to know, he need but employ an intelligent person to make an investigation. The facts are there.

THE STATE STEPS IN

The state legislature appears to have had ideas similar to those entertained by Dr. Anderson during his latter administration. It has passed a law, applicable to La Crosse, providing for the covering of all food stuffs displayed on the sidewalk by a protection of glass or wood, and that they shall be raised at least two feet from the ground. In March, 1908, Dr. Anderson in a communication urged a similar measure upon the city council, and not the least interesting thing about the affair was that it was adversely reported by the committee on public health. Committees, like dreams, "go by contraries."

To John W. Gates, multi-millionaire plunger who died yesterday, life was a gamble and business a sporting event. Speculation was ozone to him, and he was a hero among the lovers of the "game sport." Withal, as his "bank roll" shows, he exercised good judgment, and it is recorded that he was the one man who could make J. Pierpont Morgan "side-step."

A news dispatch informs us that a number of "wealthy gentlemen" of Milwaukee have joined in an agreement to enter suit to test the validity of the new state income tax law, to which they are opposed. We recall that these "wealthy gentlemen" urged the legislature to defeat the income tax bill because it was "a hardship upon the poor." The poor rich, we presume.

In his petition to the state fisheries commission, published in The Tribune today, Dr. E. A. Gatterdam ignores the existing quarrel and concerns himself only with the essential—that bass rescued in land-locked waters along the Mississippi river be returned to the river, where they belong.

Some waggish operator on the United Press circuit yesterday flashed this question over the wire: "Was Madeline Forced to say 'yes' because John Jacob Astor?" Upon perusing the annual report of John M. Nolen we observe that at the time the park board was organized Dr. Wendell A. Anderson was mayor.

UNION IS INDEPENDENT

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 10.—Efforts to organize lumber cutters and mill employees of Texas and Louisiana into the Brotherhood of Timber Workers failed when employees of the John Kirby Lumber company and others, numbering 6,000 men, refused to affiliate The Kirby company's 4,000 employees insisted they have no grievance against their employer and that the brotherhood holds no advantage for them. Because of their action, lumber workers were assured that the ten mills closed recently, will be reopened immediately.

TO SEINERS, FISHERMEN and SPORTSMEN

You know that the game fish are rapidly disappearing from the Mississippi. You know that the main cause of this is the seining of minnows by state and federal crews, for shipment to other waters. The Tribune is making a fight to put a stop to this. In order to do so we must have specific facts. If you know of cases where these crews have seined minnows in bays, creek mouths and bayous from which they could have found their way back to the river, or if you know of cases in which these crews have left minnows to perish on the ground, please notify this office at once. Write, telephone, or call and see us. Address, "The Tribune, La Crosse, Wisconsin."

Her National Mistake
"This is so sudden," she exclaimed When on his knees he fell; It would be wrong if she were blamed, For how was she to tell?

Upon his knees she saw him pitch, She had one thought—no more; He knelt to grab a nickel which Was lying on the floor.

Raised!
"Stock-takings and yearly statements should be conservative. In taking an account of stock it is a grave error to be, like the Cape May sculptor, over-sanguine."

The speaker was Senator Boise Penrose of Philadelphia. He resumed:

"This sculptor, calculating like certain financiers I've known, said to a friend on the Cape May beach: 'You know that terra cotta statuette of mine, 'The Bathers'? Well, I got more for it than I expected.'"

"But," said his friend, 'I thought your landlady just took it for board.' 'Yes, very true,' said the sculptor, 'but you must remember that the price of board has gone up.'"

Very Unclubby

A true happening which has lately been made the subject of a cartoon occurred at a fashionable golf club near London. A young man of the social atmosphere, one day decided to play a round. So he sauntered leisurely down to the caddy house, where he met a certain peppery lord. Not knowing the gentleman and barely looking at him, the somewhat foppish youth asked, "Are you the caddy master here?" With an instant's hesitation Lord—replied, "No, I am not, but I happen to know that he is not in need of any caddies this afternoon." It was some time before either recovered.

An Attentive Class

The college of France, founded in Paris by Francis I., offers at the present day not only strictly academic instruction, but opportunities for the highest education in general. The following anecdote from the Colours of Paris, shows how far the college carries its scrupulousness. Every scientific subject, even the most abstruse, will continue to be taught there as long as one solitary individual in all Europe desires to pursue it.

Certain courses are followed by two or three persons only. They tell the story of a professor of mathematics. This professor, who was extremely absent minded, had lectured for a whole year to only one pupil.

He was perfectly satisfied that it should be so, but it occurred to him one day that he ought to congratulate his rare disciple, and he accordingly did so.

"Monsieur does not recognize me," replied the pupil. "I am monsieur's coachman, and I always wait here until monsieur has finished his lecture."—Youth's Companion.

Checkmate

In these days when various schemes are being suggested by which the loser of personal property may recover it without offering an extreme reward, it is interesting to note two advertisements which appeared in a German paper. In these advertisements nothing so bald as a suggestion of reward appears. They seem merely to present two wits fencing, and the reader forgets the matter at stake.

Berlin, Aug. 5th. The gentleman who found a purse, valuable beyond explanation, in the Blumenstrasse, is requested graciously to forward it to the address of the loser, as he is recognized.

Berlin, Aug. 6th. The recognized gentleman who found a purse, valuable beyond explanation, begs that the loser will call at his home at the earliest convenient hour.—Youth's Companion.

The First Wreck

Mrs. Donald H. Barlow, the eastern golf champion, was talking at the Cape May Golf club about the benefits of sea air.

"To look at the cottagers and natives of Cape May," she said, "Speaks of these benefits more eloquently than I could do. How pale and wan seem city people beside these brown, supple, vigorous men and women."

"An excursionist from the city," she resumed, "said to a fisherman on the beach the other morning: 'Do you have many wrecks here?'"

"The fisherman looked contemptuously at the city man, who was in bathing dress. He looked contemptuously at his hollow chest and white,

Too Trustful

With much trouble the burglar had effected an entrance into the trust company's offices. As he approached the big steel safe he was confronted by this sign: "Save your dynamite; this safe is not locked. Turn knob and open." "I don't know what their little game is," he said, "but I'll just see if it really is unlocked." He grasped the knob and gave it a turn. Whereupon he received an electric shock that nearly floored him. An alarm bell rang loudly, the office became flooded with light, a door in the wall flew open and a big dog sprang at him. "Darn my fool idea!" he exclaimed an hour later as the door of a cell in the police station closed on him. "I know what the matter with me! I'm too trusting!"—Chicago Tribune.

Tommy was a venturesome lad, but nobody had ever credited him with sufficient courage to shake his head in contradiction when the Sunday school visitor, who wished to show off his knowledge of Biblical history, asserted that Sarah, Abraham's wife, was the only woman whose age was recorded in the Bible. Seeing the disapproving motion of the little head in the front row the visitor reiterated: "Sarah was the only woman whose age is recorded in the Bible. Then Tommy spoke right up: 'There are three more that I know of,' said he. 'Who?' asked the astonished visitor. 'Mother, grandmother and Aunt Lucy,' said Tommy.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof.

It's the sure remedy, you know, for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for sweaty, bad smelling feet, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too. "For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pains. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used."—A. F. Mrs. Harry Adams of Malden, Escape by the central stairway would be out of the question, because by that way only could danger approach. She leaned out of the window. Catching at the coarse ivy vine which climbed up the old wall of the house, she saw that it ascended past her window to the very cornice where the white pillars joined the roof. The pillars themselves, vast and smooth, would have been useless even could she have reached them. Below, a slender lattice or ladder had been erected to the height of one story, to give the ivy its support. A strong active person might by mere possibility reach this frail support if the ivy itself proved strong enough to hold under the strain. She clutched at it desperately. It seemed to her that although the smaller tendrils loosened, the greater arms held firm.

She stepped back into the room, listened, straining all her soul in a demand for certitude. As yet she had only dreaded to hear a sound, had not indeed done so. Now at least there came a footfall—was it true? It seemed not heavy enough for a man's step, but a man on secret errand might tread light. She flung herself upon the bed, her hands clasped, her lips moving in supplication.

But now it came again, that was it—it was a footfall. It approached along the hall, paused at the barricaded door. It was there outside, stopping. She heard a breath drawn. The knob was tried, silently at first, then with greater force. "Who is there?" she quavered. "Who is there?" she repeated. No answer came.

"Jeanne!" she cried aloud. "Oh, Jeanne! Jeanne! Sally!" There was once a sound of a distant door opening. No voice came. Outside her own door now was silence.

She could endure no more. Though it were into flames, she must escape from this place, where she came one to claim a property, not a woman; where a woman faced use, not wooing. God! And there was no weapon, to assure God's vengeance now; here, at once.

SNEAK THIEF AT WORK IN HOTEL

North Side Man Loses
Clothes in Mysterious Manner; Suspect Is Released

When Harry Hagen, 701 Mill street, went to his room about noon yesterday to get a raincoat preparatory to going camping, he discovered the door wide open, and practically all of his clothes, including the raincoat, gone.

The clothes, which consisted of a new suit, a hat, a pair of shoes and the raincoat, were stolen from Hagen's room in the old Gorman hotel, on Mill street, some time between 10 and 11 o'clock yesterday morning, according to the statement of the chambermaid of the hotel.

She declares that after making up the bed in the room at 10 o'clock, she locked the door, and that at that time the clothes were in the room. A about 11, when Hagen came home, the door was open, and the clothes were gone.

Stranger Suspected
It is believed that the door was opened by some one in possession of a skeleton key. Suspicion points to a man dressed in blue overalls and with a dark coat, who stayed at the hotel over night and left, according to the landlady, Mrs. Wachter, at about 11 o'clock the next morning. The man declared himself to be Oscar Peterson, and said he was working on the government works up the river near Holmen. A man answering the description of Peterson was later discovered in the east yards of the Milwaukee road, with a bundle of clothes and a silk fin shed rain coat under his arm.

The police were informed of the robbery immediately after its discovery, and all outgoing trains were watched. Later in the afternoon a young man was brought in from West Salem, who was wearing clothes that in a general way answered the description given the police of the missing garments. He was held over night but released this morning when Hagen declared that his clothes were not those that had been stolen.

Hagen declared this morning that he was convinced that his clothes were gone for good. "The police," he said, "gave up the search when they found that wrong fellow at West Salem, and by this time Peterson will be clear away."

Arrest Shoe Peddler
A man giving the name of Otto Brown was arrested on the north side yesterday afternoon, after he had made several ineffectual attempts to sell three pairs of new shoes which he had in his possession. When questioned by the police he declared that he shoes had been given him by someone else, and that he knew nothing about them. The police, however, believe that he appropriated them from some box car, and are holding him in an effort to discover from where the footwear came.

LEAGUE TAKES UP
HAMMOND CHUTE

Blamed for Putrid Condition of Black River; May Be Closed; New Sidewalk Urged

The North Side Progressive league at the regular monthly meeting last night took up again the old discussion over the Hammond Chute, and it was finally decided to hold an investigation and determine who is the proper person to be seen in order to have the chute closed.

Hammond Chute, it was declared, is responsible for the putrid condition of the Black river, in that it turns so much water out of the river that there is not sufficient current to carry off the sewage which flows into the river above the electric light plant. An effort will be made to have the chute closed.

The league also went on record last night as favoring the construction of the sidewalk to the rubber mills to replace the present rotten wooden walk. Alderman Otto Granke declared that the work could be done for less than $2,000, and he was instructed to bring the matter up before the council at the next meeting.

In the absence of President Mulder, Rev. Ambrose Murphy presided over the meeting.

BOUNDARY DISPUTE
CAUSES TROUBLE

Charging Charles Gunn with having drawn a revolver and threatening to shoot him, George D. Phillips had a warrant sworn out for the arrest of the former, who today appeared before Judge Brindley. Both men reside at French Island, and the trouble arose over a dispute as to the boundary line of their land, which is adjoining.

Gunn's deed gives him the right of a certain tract of land, minus four small pieces of which which were sold to other parties. The exact amount of land is not specified in the deed. The case was adjourned for one week.

TAP SOUNDS FOR GENERAL GORDON

Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate Veterans
Dies After Election to Congress

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 10.—The death of General George W. Gordon, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, and United States congressman, leaves the veterans' affairs in the hands of Adjutant General William E. Mickle of New Orleans. The commander-in-chief died late yesterday. His last illness began shortly after his election to the sixty-second congress. He served in the sixtieth and sixty-first congresses.

Gordon was born in Tennessee October 5, 1836, and during his life achieved prominence as a civil engineer, soldier, lawyer and educator. He enlisted in the cause of the confederacy in Tennessee at the outbreak of the civil war, and served throughout the struggle.

At the close of the war General Gordon studied law and practiced until 1883, when he was appointed railroad commissioner. Under appointment of the department of the interior, he served in the Indian reservations on the Pacific coast for four years.

In 1892, General Gordon was elected superintendent of the Memphis public schools.

The veteran in reunion at Little Rock last May re-elected him their commander-in-chief, having first elected him at Mobile, Ala., in 1890, succeeding General Clement A. Evans.

General Gordon's illness was due to kidney trouble which developed complications. He is survived by Mrs. Jennie Gordon, formerly of New Albany, Miss., who was his second wife. They had no children.

MARKET FOR ICE IN TURKEY
Company Shaves Product Until It Resembles Snow, Which the Nat-ives Demand.

There is a newly erected ice plant at Smyrna, Turkey, built by an American company, and it is now doing a good business. An ice plant there has been making daily about six tons of poor ice, which it sold at $15 a ton.

The new company makes from distilled water a fine, clear ice, which it sells at $5 a ton, and although it has been running scarcely 30 days it is selling from 25 to 40 tons of ice daily.

The company has some unique competition from the mountain folk, who bring to Smyrna snow packed in skins. They save the snow in the winter by having it packed in trenches and covered with pine needles.

The Turks are very conservative, and it is difficult to get some of them to use ice instead of the snow to which they have been accustomed for many years, even though the latter costs them one cent a pound, or $20 a ton.

The new company puts a block of ice in a box, with small circular saws at one end, and produces an article that cannot be distinguished from snow and which is sold in successful competition with the mountain snow.

ASTORIA CELEBRATES

VERSARY OF SETTLEMENT
PACIFIC NORTHWEST
ASTOR PIONEER

ASTORIA, Ore., Aug. 10.—The 100th anniversary of the settlement of the Pacific northwest was celebrated today by the opening of the Astoria exposition. In 1812 John Jacob Astor founded a trading post here. Today, with sixteen naval vessels in the harbor, Governor West, surrounded by state and national guard officers, in the center of a rich and populous country, formally opened the thirty-six day celebration. President Taft was represented by John Barrett, director general of the bureau of the Pan-American republic.

Astoria and Oregon had been preparing for the celebration for six months and every building and exhibit was complete when the gates of Fort Astoria swung open at 2 p. m.

A monster parade, in which organizations from Portland, Seattle, Spokane, San Francisco and Vancouver, B. C., participated, was one of the features of the opening day. Naval vessels from England are already in the harbor with the representatives of the American navy, while a French and Japanese cruiser will arrive before the end of the week. A big water parade and carnival will take place tonight.

MINNESOTA WOMAN
KILLS SELF AND SON

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Bara Sautch, whose home was in Hibbing, Minn., and who was to have sailed today for her birthplace at Wagram, Austria, killed herself and her 6 year old son, Leo, in the old Stevens house, on lower Broadway, today.

Four times during the night the watchman smelled gas and traced it to her room. Each time she explained the wind had blown out the jet. Today, however, she failed to appear and investigation showed she had stuffed the cracks in the door and the keyhole, turned on the gas and retired with her boy in her arms to await death.

Her mind has been tottering for some time, and her husband, a wealthy Minnesotan, was sending her home in the hope that her reason might be restored.

DENEEN TO RETRENCH

ILLINOIS STATE OFFICIALS LIKE TO LOSE JOBS THROUGH CONSOLIDATION OF DEPARTMENTS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 10.—That Governor Deneen is backing a policy of retrenchment that threatens to shake some state officials from their present remunerative positions, although not decreasing their efficiency of the state government, was made known today. The plan includes the consolidation of several state departments, boards and commissions, placing them under one executive head. It means, also, the abolition of a number of minor offices.

President W. B. Moulton and Secretary Joseph Mason of the civil service commission, are preparing a chart which will show every department, its officers and employees, the nature of their duties and such other data as may be useful in putting the economy into effect.

The investigation now being conducted by the civil service commission will end in October and at that time a report will be drafted and handed to the governor, who will turn it over to the legislature which convenes October 3 with the recommendation that legislation be enacted carrying the retrenchment policy into effect.

WOMEN MAY FORM POLITICAL PARTY

Colorado Suffragettes Prepared to Demand Share of Offices; Claim Majority of Votes

- All Colorado Women Want:
- Lieutenant governor or one congressman.
- Not less than four members lower house.
- Two state senators.
- State auditor.
- State superintendent of schools.
- That's all.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 10.—And they say they will get them, too, at the next general election. If they don't, they threaten to form a new political party. With the male vote split between the republicans, democrats, socialists, laborites and one or two other parties, the women politicians believe that united, they will be the majority and instead of begging favors, can get the entire slate unless they are merciful to the mere men.

This year, the representation of the women voters in state offices consists of the state superintendent of schools and four assemblymen. They will demand that both major parties allow the women to name the candidates for the positions indicated, so that whether republicans or democrats carry the state, the women will win.

"We have made good as voters. We have shown that we can hold office and do it better than the men, then why shouldn't we get what we want?"

That's the way the women argue. Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, a national figure among the suffragists, is one of the leaders in the movement for general recognition of the women voters and may be the democratic candidate for congress or the lieutenant governorship. The work of organization already is under way.

PROSECUTION OF FRAUDS IN ALASKA TO OPEN TODAY

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 10.—Startling developments in the prosecution of the Alaskan coal land frauds were expected when the federal grand jury met today to take up the cases. Townsend spent six months in Alaska making a personal investigation of the fraud charges.

BAILEY TO SUPPORT BALL

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 10.—Anti-Bailey men among Texas prohibitionists today see in Senator Bailey's defense of Thomas H. Ball as a gubernatorial candidate, an attempt on the part of Bailey to join the element controlling the legislature. The prohibitionists have a majority in both senate and house. Ball is chairman of the state-wide prohibition organization, and is being advanced by the "drys" to succeed Governor O. B. Colquit.

In a telegram to a friend at his home, Gainesville, Senator Bailey declared he will support Ball for governor.

Bailey's friends say friendship, and not politics, influences the senator in behalf of Ball.

Pretty Beulah Binford from a new photograph, whose attractions, it is alleged, ensnared the youthful Henry Clay Beattie, and lead to his being held on a charge of murdering his wife. Beulah, while not possessing the beauty of an Evelyn Thaw, is undoubtedly a remarkable type. Her hair is almost golden, gently waving and plentiful. Her eyes are blue and dancing, and even in the cell where she is being held as an important witness she cannot drop the coquetry, which is said to have caused Beattie's downfall.

WISCONSIN NEWS

MILWAUKEE CHIEF MAY BE REDUCED

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 10.—Fire Chief Thomas A. Clancy was given his first hearing before the police and fire commission this morning at 10 o'clock.

Walter H. Bender, the attorney for the suspended fire chief, yesterday announced that he would ask for an adjournment of ten days in which to prepare the defense and secure suitable witnesses.

A rumor was current in the city hall yesterday that in case the charges against Chief Clancy were found to be insufficient for the actual discharge from the service, a reduction in rank would be insisted upon by the administration. The plan, it is pointed out, is to prove that while Mr. Clancy may be an efficient fire-fighter, he lacks the executive ability to take charge of the administration of the affairs of the department. In this way they hope to relegate him to a position of assistant chief of the department.

The statements that as a result of the suspension of the chief an advance of insurance rates through the lowering of the classification of the city would ensue is regarded as an idle threat by members of the administration.

POPE'S GOUT SPREADS

NECESSARY TO ADMINISTER POWERFUL STIMULANTS TO MAKE HEART PERFORM ITS FUNCTIONS

ROME, Aug. 10.—Officially the condition of his holiness, Pope Pius X is better today.

Despite the official bulletins, however, there is a strong feeling of pessimism about the Vatican. The officials admit their alarm over the continued illness of the pontiff. The pope is slowly invading the body of the distinguished patient and his heart has on several occasions recently given the attending physicians grave concern. It has been necessary to administer powerful stimulants in order to make the organ perform its functions.

The brother of the pope has been summoned from Rieti and his sisters continue in the closest attendance on him. The hot weather is slowly undermining his holiness' strength.

The pope this evening insisted on leaving his bed and sat in an easy chair in his bedroom while hearing services.

STREET CAR TRAILER NEARLY OVER BANK

A trailer of the street car company, coming from the North side with a load of merry-makers for the carnival, left the tracks near the La Crosse river bridge about 8:30 Tuesday evening, and it is considered that only the slow rate of speed at which the motor car was going in crossing the Burlington tracks saved the car from a disastrous plunge down the twelve foot embankment at that point. The car was stopped in a short distance, and the only damage done was a little shaking up and a scare to the occupants. The forward car did not leave the rails. A crew of men from the car barns put the trailer on the track in a short time after the accident occurred. Conductor Woldt and Motorman Woldt were in charge of the car that left the track.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The echo of yesterday's government crop report showing an immense amount of damage done to the cereals by the protracted heat and dry weather was heard in the board of trade today, the bulls raiding the market from the very start. September wheat was pushed up three-quarters of a cent over last night's closing price, while December sold up to 97 1/2¢ by noon. Corn was up from 94¢ to 95¢, while oats and provisions soared. Trading was excited all morning, foreign cables reporting great bullish movements.

BRYAN WILL TAKE IT ALL BACK, IF—

Says He Is Willing to Apologize to Underwood if Information Was Wrong

UP TO OMAHA NEWSPAPERS

Calls for Verification of the Dispatch on Which Criticism Was Based

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 10.—William J. Bryan is willing to offer apology for his recent criticism of Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, providing the Omaha World-Herald (United States Senator Hitchcock's newspaper) fails to substantiate a Washington dispatch by which the Bryan shaft at the ways and means chairman was inspired.

In the current issue of his Commoner today Mr. Bryan addresses an open letter to the editor of the World-Herald and calls for a verification of a Washington dispatch, dated July 25, in which Chairman Underwood was reported as having opposed a caucus motion to take up the steel and iron schedule, and for which he (Underwood) was criticized by Congressman Kitchin and other democratic members. After pointing out that he obtained his information from a democratic source, (the World-Herald) Bryan says:

"Underwood Unmasked" "Mr. Underwood last Wednesday accused Mr. Bryan of misrepresenting his attitude on the iron and steel schedule. He quoted a Commoner editorial entitled 'Underwood Unmasked.' The Commoner editorial was written by Mr. Bryan and was based on a Washington dispatch which appeared in the Omaha World-Herald of July 25.

"If the World-Herald report is not true Mr. Bryan withdraws his criticism, apologizes for the editorial and expresses regret that he brought the charge he did. If, however, the World-Herald report is correct—if Mr. Clark offered or supported a resolution instructing the committee to proceed to report other tariff reduction bills, including a bill to reduce the tariff on iron and steel, and Mr. Underwood led the fight against it and defeated it, Mr. Bryan has a right to draw his own conclusions as to why Mr. Underwood opposed Mr. Clark's resolution. If it is true, as the World-Herald says, that Mr. Kitchin referred to Mr. Underwood's investments in the steel business and expressed the fear that delay in reducing the iron and steel schedule might be attributed to that pecuniary interest, Mr. Bryan has a right to refer to the matter and to express his own opinion.

Secret Caucus Hit "Chairman Underwood has no cause to complain. Mr. Bryan's criticism of his has brought him at once the ardent friendship and admiration of those democrats—an influential class, too—who have fought Mr. Bryan for fifteen years. Now if he has won the friendship of all those who have been friendly to Mr. Bryan, he must be the popular man in the party.

"If the democratic members of the house did not submit to secret caucuses on public affairs there would be no doubt concerning any of their proceedings. "The secret caucus is one of the worst foes of popular government. If you are opposed to it, write to your member of congress and urge him to protest against it."

REAL RATE "ZONES"

COMMERCE COMMISSION DIVIDES COUNTRY INTO TERRITORIES TO FACILITATE ORDERING NEW TARIFFS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—In order to facilitate the ordering of new railroad rates throughout the United States, the interstate commerce commission today divided the country into five "zones" or territories, zone No. 1, lying west of a line extending southwestward from Grand Portage, Mich., along the Arkansas-Oklahoma state line to the Gulf. The other four zones comprise the territory east of this line.

In the same order the commission held that freight rates complained of by the Spokane, Washington chamber of commerce were unlawful and ordered that they be suspended for a period of two years from November 15. These rates include charges for transportation from points of origin in zone No. 1 to Spokane and Walla Walla, Washington, and Baker City, Le Grande and Pendleton, Oregon, which, according to today's order, shall not exceed the charges from any other point in the same zone.

The same order denied the applications of the trans-continental freight bureau to establish rates from eastern freight bureaus to intermediate points in the middle western states and Canada which are higher than those to the Pacific coast.

THE RIVER WILL GET JUSTICE

have the bass minnows rescued from the land-locked waters adjacent to the Mississippi river restored to the Mississippi, instead of being deposited in inland lakes as is now the practice. This work is in charge of Geo. N. Brown, with headquarters at Homer, Minn.

"I understand that your department provides blanks upon which such applications shall be made. If so, will you kindly forward one to this address?"

"The application is based upon the fact that the river from Genoa to Wabasha, Minn., which has been known as the finest bass fly-fishing ground in the world, has within the past few years been practically stripped of its bass, partly by the operation of the United States fisheries commission, and the Wisconsin state fisheries commission. A similar application is to be made to the state commission to restore bass minnows to the Mississippi for a period of years, instead of transplanting them in inland waters.

Respectfully, "A. M. BRAYTON."

Burns Discusses Case In an alleged interview last evening John C. Burns, a member of the Wisconsin fish commission, is quoted as having defended the practice of paying for minnows at $5 per thousand upon the ground of economy. Today Mr. Burns said to The Tribune that he had no personal knowledge as to whether the method was economical. Having been a member of the commission but a few weeks, Mr. Burns said he was not well enough informed to discuss any subject pertaining to the work of the commission. He knew them personally as high minded men, and he appreciated Superintendent Nevin as a painstaking official, deeply interested in his work. If the ordinary employees of the commission had violated the law, Mr. Burns said, he knew positively that it was without the knowledge of either the superintendent or the commissioners.

Thinks Change Will Be Made Commissioner Burns added that while he disliked to discuss a matter concerning which he possessed little personal knowledge, it seemed to him a proper and wise step for the commission to accede to the wishes of the people along the Mississippi and restore rescued bass and other fish to the river instead of sending them to inland lakes.

Conditions Have Changed "As I understand it," said Mr. Burns, "the commission regards the Mississippi as a large natural hatchery. So long as the practice did not seem to deplete the fish supply in the river, it was proper under the law for the commission to take bass from land-locked waters along the river to supply the lakes. But I doubt if the commission, when convinced that the fishing in the Mississippi is on the wane, will deem it proper to take more fish from the river sloughs. I know they want to be fair, and I think that is fair."

Mr. Burns was quoted as having said that Superintendent Nevin had ordered the state game warden to arrest any persons found violating the game laws in the matter of seining minnows. He is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Nevin, but felt he should not make it public without permission of the official. Mr. Brown has written for fuller information.

REMODELING SALE AT NELSON'S

Scout James Murphy, brother of President Charles Murphy of the Chicago Cubs is watching the work of Ginger Watson this afternoon. The famous scout has been sent here to get a line on the work of the Toledo wingster and his report will decide whether or not Watson will wear the Cub uniform next season.

Watson who has been with Outcasts during the past three seasons has developed wonderfully, and will probably go to the Cubs. His record in the recent nineteen inning game has attracted the attention of several of the big league presidents and should the Cubs fail to purchase Watson, he will doubtless go to some other major league club next season.

MOTHER WEeps OVER AFFAIR Says She Can't See Why Chauffeur Son Married Girl Relative of the Vanderbilts

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 10.—"I do not see why my boy married that society girl. He is a good, honest, clean boy with no bad habits, and the hardest kind of a worker. And he has been a good son to his father and me."

With traces of tears in her eyes, Mrs. John G. Geraghty, wife of the village livery stable proprietor and mother of "Handsome Jack" Geraghty, the chauffeur, who yesterday eloped with and married Miss Julia Stella French, heiress and debutante of last winter, expressed this sentiment today as she asked if any news had been received from her son and his bride. The marriage following the elopement of Newport, is distasteful to the society element and the family of the young heiress, is equally so to the village livery man and his good wife.

Drives Own Hack "We wanted our boy to marry a girl of his own kind," Mrs. Geraghty continued. "Last week Styvesant Leroy, Miss French's uncle, came here and ordered Jack to keep away from his relative. I told Jack to do so, but love is a funny thing, they say."

John G. Geraghty, father of the boy is a Newport character. He has a good livery business and drives his own hack "when a driver lays down on him." The son drove one of his father's rigs until this year, when he became a chauffeur. The Geraghtys are highly respected as honest, hard working straight-forward people.

With traces of tears in her eyes, Mrs. John G. Geraghty, wife of the village livery stable proprietor and mother of "Handsome Jack" Geraghty, the chauffeur, who yesterday eloped with and married Miss Julia Stella French, heiress and debutante of last winter, expressed this sentiment today as she asked if any news had been received from her son and his bride. The marriage following the elopement of Newport, is distasteful to the society element and the family of the young heiress, is equally so to the village livery man and his good wife.

Drives Own Hack "We wanted our boy to marry a girl of his own kind," Mrs. Geraghty continued. "Last week Styvesant Leroy, Miss French's uncle, came here and ordered Jack to keep away from his relative. I told Jack to do so, but love is a funny thing, they say."

John G. Geraghty, father of the boy is a Newport character. He has a good livery business and drives his own hack "when a driver lays down on him." The son drove one of his father's rigs until this year, when he became a chauffeur. The Geraghtys are highly respected as honest, hard working straight-forward people.

Meanwhile there is the utmost consternation in society circles. Anxious mothers are safeguarding their "eligible daughters," whom they hope to yet marry to Astors or at least to millionaires, and young chauffeurs are being hastily displaced for their excessive homeliness.

May Annual Marriage All of those related to the bride, including her aunt, Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt, divorced wife of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who drives a society stage between London and Brighton, were in retirement today. They sent word that under no circumstances would they discuss the wedding or the report that the bride's father intends applying to have the marriage annulled.

Meanwhile the young couple are believed to be honeymooning in Boston, indifferent to the stir their wedding has caused.

COMMITTEES MEET TONIGHT Nearly every member of the city council will be at the city hall this evening, to attend committee meetings, the calls for which were issued yesterday by City Clerk E. H. Hoffman. Nothing out of the ordinary has been announced as a subject for discussion by any of the committees, the affairs being simply routine matters. The following committees have been called together: Sewers, finance, baths, streets and alleys, grounds and buildings, scales and judiciary.

CUB SCOUT HERE TO WATCH WATSON

Scout James Murphy, brother of President Charles Murphy of the Chicago Cubs is watching the work of Ginger Watson this afternoon. The famous scout has been sent here to get a line on the work of the Toledo wingster and his report will decide whether or not Watson will wear the Cub uniform next season.

Watson who has been with Outcasts during the past three seasons has developed wonderfully, and will probably go to the Cubs. His record in the recent nineteen inning game has attracted the attention of several of the big league presidents and should the Cubs fail to purchase Watson, he will doubtless go to some other major league club next season.

The double header scheduled for this afternoon with Winona was called off owing to the poor condition of the grounds.

PARK STORE ADDITION

READY-TO-WEAR DEPARTMENT SOLD BY MRS. SHERMAN TO THE DOERFLINGER CORPORATION

The William Doerflinger corporation yesterday closed a deal whereby it purchased the stock of the ladies' ready-to-wear department, which was owned and operated for thirteen years by C. H. Sherman, and which has since his death been operated by Mrs. Sherman.

The department will be in charge of W. J. Timpon, a young man who comes here from Des Moines with thirteen years' experience in the ready-to-wear department of the clothing trade. Mr. Timpon has been here for some time and yesterday took active charge of the department. He is engaged in going through the stock and getting it into shape so that he can leave for New York on an extensive buying trip.

During his absence the stock already on hand will be put on sale at a sweeping price reduction, in order to clear the department for the coming of the later styles and new stock. The stock, worth $40,000, will in all probability be closed out in four weeks.

Our Lady of the Lourdes church has a unique history in that it was the first Syrian Catholic church erected in America. All of the money for its construction was raised by Father Salmons and, according to the figures, there is still an indebtedness of $3,700 on the structure. The church is known all over the country, contributions towards the fund for its construction being sent from as far east as the Atlantic, as far south as the Gulf, some from Canada, an hundreds of dollars from the eastern states.

"La Crosse, Wis., May 2, 1911. "Right Rev. James Schwabach, Bishop of La Crosse. "We, the undersigned lay-members of the church committee of Our Lady of Lourdes parish, La Crosse, Wisconsin, hereby respectfully represent:

"The members of said parish have had meetings at different times and there is general dissatisfaction with the manner in which the affairs of the parish are being conducted by Rev. Salmons, the present pastor. For some time the said Rev. Salmons has been engaged in collecting funds in the name of the church and for the purpose of paying the debt thereon. It is the belief of the members of your committee that he has collected a large amount of money, but no account has ever been rendered of the same and your committee and the members of the parish have no knowledge as to the financial condition of affairs. We therefore respectfully ask:

"1. That an account be rendered by Rev. Salmons of the money collected and disbursed in the name of said parish.

"2. That all money collected in the future be turned over to the treasurer of the church committee.

"3. That Rev. Salmons be requested to have a statement made giving the name, place and amount of money collected in any particular town or city.

"4. That the salary of Rev. Salmons be fixed and that the same be ordered paid by the treasurer of the congregation.

"5. That Rev. Salmons be required to say mass and have church services at regular stated intervals.

"We believe that our requests are just and would respectfully ask that they be given due consideration. "Members of Committee.

Grain Letter

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Startling news that the spring wheat crop is much lower in condition than in July caused opening prices today to bound a cent and over. There were unfavorable reports from Russia and also from Liverpool. Later in the morning there was a slight reaction and noon prices sagged a little.

The expected buying flurry in corn today did not materialize because of the remarkable crop figures, showing a shrinkage of the crop. The feeling in the trade is modified by the fact that since the rains of two weeks ago corn in the big surplus states tributary to Chicago has made decided improvement at several points. The weather map is fine and this helps to check bullishness.

Oats opened higher, but the market seemed heavy and there was a little feature to the trade. There was a little commission house buying. On all the hard spots the local crowd were free sellers, letting go of long oats taken on yesterday.

Provisions had a strong undertone, but trade was small.

of cleaning a garment and rendering it free from germs and microbes is to have it passed through our dry cleaning process. BOLD DAYLIGHT
SALOON ROBBERY

Decorah, Iowa, Man Claimed to Have Snatched
$4.95 from Bar in German Village Saloon

A bold daylight robbery was attempted in the German Village saloon, 210 South Fourth St., yesterday morning when James Larson of Decorah, Iowa, snatched $4.95 change belonging to Martin Echsel off the bar and ran out of the door. Robert Bartenfeld, the proprietor of the saloon, immediately gave him chase and a thrilling race was run on the street with the result that Mr. Bartenfeld caught the robber before he had gone far. Larson was taken back to the saloon by his pursuer, who notified the police immediately and they took the offender to the police station, where he is now held.

According to the story, Larson was in the saloon when Martin Echsel, an employee of Fred Heftl, came in and ordered a drink, laying down $5. His change, amounting to $4.95, was brought him and Larson took the money off the bar and hastily made for the door. Mr. Bartenfeld went in pursuit of him, catching him after a hot chase.

BOY'S FATHER TRIES TO RAISE RANSOM

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Antonio Mareno, father of 6 year old Angelo, who was mysteriously kidnapped last Saturday, and for whom Black Handers have demanded a ransom of $5,000, disappeared yesterday, and the police believe he has gone on a secret mission to complete a bargain with the child stealers for the recovery of the boy.

The doors of the Mareno home were barred even to the police, following the receipt of a letter Tuesday, in which the Marenos were warned that further communications with the police would mean death for the stolen child.

Little Stina Mareno, sister of Angelo, called from a window that her brother would be home by night. Mareno is known to have had $1,500 in a savings bank, though he never could have raised the $5,000 ransom demanded. It is believed he has gone to a rendezvous to offer the $1,500 for the return of the boy.

The police have admitted they were trying to couple Philip Mareno, the stolen boy's eldest brother, with the abduction.

WRIGHTS MAY FLY
AT CHICAGO MEET

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The arrival yesterday of four box cars containing Wright aeroplanes is said to mark the important step ever taken by the Wright brothers, and one which may give aviation in America an upward boost such as it has never experienced.

The Wrights formerly have refused to participate in any aviation meeting in which they were not paid a large bonus as a license to keep them from prosecuting other aviators for alleged infringement of patents. They steadfastly refused to take part in the big Chicago meet because the license fee was not paid them.

Arrival of the aeroplanes yesterday is said to mean that the Wrights are about to waive their patent claims and take part. Walter Brookins, Phil Parmelee, Howard Gill, A. L. Welsh and J. C. Turpin of the Wright team, are said to be coming to fly.

A general conference of bankers from New York, St. Louis and the southern states probably will be arranged later.

SOCIETY GIRL ELOPES
WITH CHAUFFEUR

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 10.—Society circles were stunned here as a result of the elopement of Miss Julia Estelle French, favorite niece of Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt, who divorced Alfred Gwynn Vanderbilt, with "Jack" Geraghty, her father's chauffeur. The couple were married in Central Village, Conn., 2 o'clock yesterday morning after having been chased across the state by the father of the bride. Immediately after the marriage the couple continued their flight toward New York.

LA CROSSE MAY GET SANITARIUM

Supervisor Kindley Says that New Institution Will Be Erected; Not Self-
Supporting

That the tuberculosis sanitarium will eventually become one of the institutions of La Crosse county is the statement made by Supervisor John Kindley Tuesday.

Supervisor Kindley, who was out of the city at the time of the last special meeting of the board of supervisors when the question was killed, said that efforts would again be made to have a committee appointed to investigate the matter and to gain information along this line, at the next meeting, which in all probability will take place some time before October.

Supervisor Kindley has several places in mind, which would be suitable as a site for the erection of the sanitarium, one of which is at the extreme southern end of the city, near the St. Michael Orphanage. Another place which is advocated by Supervisor Kindley is near the baseball park.

The institution would not be upon a paying basis, said Mr. Kindley, but the cost of maintenance would be small in comparison to the benefits to be derived from having such an institution. Each patient would have to pay for their treatment and in cases where they could not afford this, the state allows three dollars a week. Thus the greater share of the expense would be obtained from the patients.

MIKADO IS SILENT
REGARDING TREATY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—When the reply of the emperor of Japan to the address of President Taft to Admiral Togo was received at the White House, officials expressed keen disappointment that it made no reference to the president's invitation to Japan to enter the discussion of an arbitration treaty. The mikado's message follows:

"The splendid welcome accorded by you to Admiral Togo and the friendly sentiments expressed by you on that occasion have touched me very deeply, and I pray you to accept this assurance of my most cordial thanks and appreciation. (Signed) "MUTSUHITO."

MRS. NEAPOLITANO
TAKEN TO PRISON

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 10.—On the day on which it was originally intended that she should hang for the murder of her husband, killed because he attempted to drive her into a life of shame, and after bringing into the world a new life, Mrs. Angelina Neapolitano yesterday was removed from the general hospital to the jail. Apparently the woman did not recall that yesterday was to have been her execution day, and jail attaches sympathetically refrained from mentioning it to her.

The laughing girl babe cooed in her mother's arms as the transfer to the jail was made and the mother frequently kissed the wee bit of humanity whose mother was saved to it by the petitions of thousands of Americans.

The babe will remain with Mrs. Neapolitano until she is taken to Kingston penitentiary to begin her life sentence, when it will be placed in the care of the Children's Aid society. It is not yet known when the transfer to Kingston will be made.

FORMER LA CROSSE
WOMAN IS INJURED

Mrs. O. M. Mitchell, travelling saleswoman, formerly of this city and well known here, suffered a broken knee cap, it is said, when a pile of trunks in the baggage room at Spooner, Wis., tumbled over on her.

The accident happened Monday, it is understood, and immediately she was hurried to St. Paul and is now in a hospital there.

TOWN TORN OVER

IOLA, Kas., Aug. 10.—The sight of a woman, garbed in bloomers, linked between men prisoners in the city chain gang, is not for Iola. Judge Smeltzer's plan to make a "horrible example" of Mrs. Ella Reese, on whom he imposed a chain gang sentence, was blocked yesterday when city officials refused to obey the court's order.

Judge Smeltzer said the sentence was to be a warning to other woman who may attack society in various practices. The court refused to consider the offers from men who wished to join the chain gang, on the streets to save Mrs. Reese. He ordered that the woman be provided with bloomers.

Mayor Bollinger and the city commissioners refused to authorize the purchase of bloomers and Street Commissioner Glynn announced that no woman would be allowed to work on the streets. Examination of the books shows the judge has the law on his side, but the fight to alter the woman's sentence is being waged by officials and popular sentiment.

HUGE SWINDLE FOUND

TEXAS CORPORATION, CAPITAL-
IZED AT $5,000,000, WITH WIDE SPREAD OPERATIONS
ACCUSED OF FRAUDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Bottled sunshine turned to gloom yesterday when two officers of the Sun Electrical Generating company, a Texas corporation, capitalized at $5,000,000, were haled before United States Commissioner John A. Shields charging with using the mails to defraud. It is alleged that the promoters of the company have cleaned up nearly a million dollars by selling stock in their plan to generate energy from the sun's rays. The government sleuths say the so-called sun-ray catching machines were operated by nothing more wonderful than electricity.

The prisoners were George H. Cove, president, and George H. Burlingame, stock selling agent of the alleged swindling concern. Both are prosperous looking and promptly furnished $2,500 and $5,000 bail for a hearing in October. Among the concern's stock of which Burlingame is said to have marketed are: Pittsburg Coal Dredging company, Cleveland Coal Dredging company, Radio Telephone company, North American Wireless company, Universal Roller Bearing company, Bennett Pump company, and Rocky Mountain Tunnel company.

The main plant of the Sun Electrical Generating company was at Baltimore. There were also "demonstrating plants" in Philadelphia, New Orleans and Austin, Texas, and most of the victims of the concern are residents of those cities. The specific complaint against Cove and Burlingame is fraud against A. B. Teasley, Concordia, Kas.

The postoffice inspectors called attention to the fact that Burlingame bears a striking resemblance to the pictures of George Randolph Chesters financial buccaneer "J. Rufus Wallingford."

CAR STRIKERS FIGHT
OVER 'KNOCK DOWNS'

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Because the strike breaking motormen accused the conductors of holding out on them, and not properly sharing the "knocked down" nickels, a lively fight took place at the barns of the Coney Island & Brooklyn road, where a strike is in progress. Motormen and conductors paired off and a hot fight which lasted fifteen minutes was only stopped when the police reserves arrived and vigorously used their clubs. A dozen strike breakers were arrested. Cars were moving as usual along the lines of the company today, but were slimly patronized.

WILEY SPRINGS TWO CHARGES ON M'CABE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, pure food champion, sprung two surprises yesterday at the hearing of the committee on expenditures in the department of agriculture, which is investigating the charges against the chief chemist.

Solicitor George P. McCabe of the department, who condemned Wiley for employing Dr. H. H. Rusby as an expert, admitted that he will be discussed by local bankers an exactly similar payment to another expert employed by the bureau, prior to the time of Dr. Rusby's service.

McCabe also admitted that in a publication of the department, he changed the language used by a federal court in handing down a decision in a case involving the use of benzoic acid, substituting "catfeine" for "benzoic acid," mentioned as one of the counts in which the American Beverage company of Missouri was convicted.

CRONON PROMISES TO REMIT FINE

Joe Feinberg, Sixteenth and Badger streets, was yesterday fined $1.00 and costs by Police Justice Cronon, for violating the health ordinances by throwing articles around and not keeping his place clean. This case was brought up by the health department. Judge Cronon, in giving his ruling, said that if the defendant cleaned up his place to the satisfaction of the health department the fine would be remitted, and Mr. Feinberg promised to do this.
